مقدمه

یکی از بخش‌های آزمون آیلتس، رایتینگ می باشد که به تازگی کسب نمره ۷ یا بیشتر در آن دشوار و یا حتی غیرممکن شده است. یکی از بزرگترین ترس‌های داوطلبین آزمون آیلتس چگونگی شروع رایتینگ تسک ۲ است. این داوطلبین وقت زیادی را صرف ایده‌پردازی و یافتن کلمات هم‌خانواده برای پاراگراف می‌کنند. به‌کارگیری مهارت بازنویسی در طول رایتینگ تسک ۲ زمانی که می‌خواهید مدام از یک واژه استفاده نکنید مفید است. و نیز ایده‌پردازی خوب از دیدگاه یک انگلیسی‌زبان می‌تواند نمره شما را افزایش دهد.

کتابی که پیش روی شماست حاصل ماه‌ها کار توسط (استاد انگلیسی زبان و آیلتس) از انگلستان و پیمان (کارشناسی ارشد آموزش زبان انگلیسی) بوده است. در این کتاب 101 موضوع از سوالات اخیر آیلتس از سری کتاب‌های کمبریج انتخاب شده که شامل بیش از 500 کلمه و عبارات بازنویسی شده می‌باشد. تمرکز اصلی این کتاب بر روی مهارت بازنویسی و ایده‌پردازی یا پاسخ صریح به سوالات رایتینگ تسک ۲ آیلتس است.

همچنین کل موضوعات این کتاب دارای ویدئوی آموزشی و تصحیح می‌باشد که برای مشاهده این ویدئوها می‌توانید به اینستاگرام www.ielts9pro و یا وبسایت https://ielts9.pro مراجعه کنید.

In some countries, owning a home rather than renting one is very important for people.

Why might this be the case?

Do you think this is a positive or negative situation?

Paraphrase

- ❖ In some countries = In some parts of the world
- ❖ ..... for people = People (change in order)
- ❖ owning a home = own a home
- ❖ rather = rather than
- ❖ very important = more important
- ❖ positive = beneficial

Thesis Statement

Why might this be the case? the reasons for this are mainly cultural

Do you think this is a positive or negative situation? it is beneficial for the owners for personal and financial reasons

Introduction Paragraph

In some parts of the world, people consider it to be more important to own a home rather than rent one. I believe the reasons for this are mainly cultural and that in general, it is beneficial for the owners for personal and financial reasons.

A Sample Essay

In some parts of the world, people consider it to be more important to own a home rather than rent one. I believe the reasons for this are mainly cultural and that in general, it is beneficial for the owners for personal and financial reasons.

Home ownership has several advantages, as in some countries it can make the difference between being able to find a wife or remaining single, especially if you are a man. For example, as I know from personal experience, in China, if you are a young man looking for a wife, then one of the first questions she will ask you is if you have an apartment, a car, and a good job. If the answer is no, especially to the owning a home part, then you are not getting married, it is that simple. We can see then, just how this fact can be vital in some societies, particularly in South East Asia.

In my view, owning a home makes sound financial sense. In some European countries, renting is quite socially acceptable and is not a marriage breaking issue for many people. However, given the rising prices of rents in those countries in recent years, paying off a mortgage is probably cheaper than paying rent. For example, when I owned a house some years ago, my mortgage was about half what the market rate for rent was at that time. This made a considerable difference to my monthly outgoings which I greatly appreciated.

In conclusion, having a home of your own is important depending on your culture as it might make the difference between a happy family life or being a lonely singleton. It also makes financial sense as instead of paying exorbitant rent to some landlord and enriching them, you will be saving money and investing in your and your families' future by owning property. For those reasons, I would definitely recommend investing in bricks and mortar.

In the future, nobody will buy printed newspapers or books because they will be able to read everything they want without paying.

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this statement?

Paraphrase

- ❖ nobody = no one
- ❖ buy = pay (to read)
- ❖ printed newspapers or books = print media such as books or newspapers
- ❖ without paying = freely available

Thesis Statement

To what extent do you agree or disagree with this statement? I disagree with this statement

Reason 1: because of its tactile appeal

Reason 2: because such items are collectable

Introduction Paragraph

In the future, no one will pay to read print media such as books or newspapers as it will be freely available. In my view, there will always be someone who will buy print media because of its tactile appeal, and also because such items are collectable.

A Sample Essay

In the future, no one will pay to read print media such as books or newspapers as it will be freely available. In my view, there will always be someone who will buy print media because of its tactile appeal, and also because such items are collectable.

For some people, holding a newspaper or a book in their hands has a certain charm. They like how paper feels and smells and will pay for it rather than get free online material. Personally, when I was at university and had to read a lot, my preference in the library was to go through the shelves and take the books and journals in my hands rather than read from a screen. I found that I connected more with the material if I had a physical interaction with it, and I am sure that many people feel the same as I do.

Sensory reasons aside, the collectability of books and newspapers for libraries and archives means that they will always be purchased by someone. Academics often have bookshelves full in their office or study rooms, and collectors of rare editions buy them too as they are valuable. For example, public libraries the world over have extensive collections of printed material. Moreover, there are organizations, such as libraries, that serve to collect books and newspapers as a form of public archives.

In conclusion, I completely disagree that there will ever be a time when people no longer buy books or papers. This is because I believe there will always be people willing to buy printed material due to its physical appeal and there will always be people and organisations that want to collect books and papers. Given this situation, it seems that printed materials will always be available.

Some people say that advertising is extremely successful at persuading us to buy things; other people think that advertising is so common that we no longer pay attention to it.

Discuss both these views and give your opinion.

Paraphrase

- ❖ Some people say that = According to some
- ❖ persuading = persuaded
- ❖ to buy = into buying
- ❖ other people = others
- ❖ think = believe
- ❖ advertising = adverts
- ❖ common = commonplace
- ❖ we no longer pay attention = no one really pays attention

Thesis Statement

My view: while some campaigns may work in certain circumstances, for many people adverts are simply a nuisance

Introduction Paragraph

According to some, people are persuaded into buying things due to extremely successful advertising campaigns. However, others believe that no one really pays attention to adverts these days as they are commonplace. In my view, while some campaigns may work in certain circumstances, for many people adverts are simply a nuisance.

A Sample Essay

According to some, people are persuaded into buying things due to extremely successful advertising campaigns. However, others believe that no one really pays attention to adverts these days as they are commonplace. In my view, while some campaigns may work in certain circumstances, for many people adverts are simply a nuisance.

Anecdotal evidence suggests that whatever product is advertised the most heavily seems to be the one that people buy. This strategy must work as commercials are extremely expensive and as companies keep running them, they must be successful otherwise the expenditure could not be justified. For example, in America, at the super-bowl at half time, adverts cost millions of dollars per second and are seen by an audience of tens of millions. If those particular ads did not work, then what company would spend so much for zero gains in consumer spending.

However, some believe that adverts are so commonplace they are like background noise and are often ignored. No one pays attention to commercials on television because they switch to other things, like making a cup of tea during the ad breaks. For example, in my house when the ads come on, we usually check our phones or go get something from the kitchen. The last thing we do is to watch, much less pay attention to, the products we see being paraded on the screen.

In conclusion, I believe that advertising must work to some extent, maybe on big promotional campaigns at some special sporting events or rallies, otherwise why would companies pay for it? However, for the more mundane ads as we see on TV many times a day, they are simply ignored and seen by many television watchers as a nuisance to be endured until their favourite programme starts again.

In some cultures, children are often told that they can achieve anything if they try hard enough.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of giving children this message?

Paraphrase

- ❖ In some cultures = In some parts of the world
- ❖ often = commonly
- ❖ achieve anything = be successful in anything
- ❖ if they try hard enough = with enough hard work

Thesis Statement

Advantage: this message may drive some children to be high achievers

Disadvantage: for the majority it is likely to be unrealistic and lead to disappointment

Introduction Paragraph

In some parts of the world, children are commonly told they can be successful in anything with enough hard work. I believe that although this message may drive some children to be high achievers, for the majority it is likely to be unrealistic and lead to disappointment.

A Sample Essay

In some parts of the world, children are commonly told they can be successful in anything with enough hard work. I believe that although this message may drive some children to aim high in life, for the majority it is likely to be unrealistic and lead to disappointment.

Encouraging children to pursue their dreams and not to give up is a positive message that all parents should give their offspring. Emphasising hard work as a path to success in life is equally inspirational and beneficial. For example, it is very common to read articles about some mothers pushing their children by giving them extracurricular activities, ballet, music, and other tuition. This is designed to instil in them a good work ethic and start them out on the path to high achievement as adults.

However, it is a fact that hard work alone is no guarantee of anything and in many areas talent is needed for success. Therefore, if a child does not have it, they will not succeed, no matter how hard they work. For example, in sport and in art, simply working at kicking a ball or painting constantly will not guarantee success if that vital ingredient, talent, is not already there. In that case, when most children are inevitably disappointed in their endeavours, such self-doubt and disillusionment might be carried over into adulthood with negative consequences to their self-esteem.

In conclusion, although it may seem a positive thing to encourage your children to persevere and work hard, this message should be tempered with a strong dose of reality. As many successful people rely on talent, not just on trying hard, a balance needs to be sought when dealing with children in order not to foster disappointment and despair in adult life.

In many countries today, crime novels and TV crime dramas are becoming more and more popular.

- ❖ are becoming more and more popular = has become popular / have a lot of fans / is becoming increasingly popular

Thesis Statement

Why do you think these books and TV shows are popular? this is due to their escapist and dramatic nature

What is your opinion of crime fiction and TV crime dramas? ...can be used to give a moral lesson that "crime doesn't pay"

Introduction Paragraph

Currently, crime fiction in books and on TV is becoming increasingly popular in many parts of the world. I believe that this is due to their escapist and dramatic nature which in my view can be used to give a moral lesson that "crime doesn't pay".

A Sample Essay

Currently, crime fiction in books and on TV is becoming increasingly popular in many parts of the world. I believe that this is due to their escapist and dramatic nature which in my view can be used to give a moral lesson that “crime doesn't pay”.

For many people, reading and watching television are entertaining distractions to help them escape their humdrum daily lives. As the crime genre provides plenty of thrills, it is not surprising that this type of material is popular. For example, as a child, I really liked reading Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's “Sherlock Holmes” mysteries and watching the black and white Holmes movies on TV. The intricate plotting, clever detective work, the excitement of how Holmes and Watson were always in danger was most satisfying to me and to the millions of others who have followed their adventures through the years.

Thrills aside, one of the most appealing aspects in crime dramas is the moral certainty and satisfaction in justice being done. That is, in almost all of these books and shows the criminal is unmasked and captured, regardless of how clever they might be. For example, in all the Sherlock Holmes stories that I can remember, only one “villain”, Irene Adler, who managed to escape him, and she was merely a victim of circumstances not really a criminal at all. What these kind of stories do then, as well as being highly entertaining, is to teach that being a criminal does not pay.

In conclusion, the rise in crime fiction around the world can be attributed to a desire for thrilling entertainment. This, in my view, can also satisfy the reader or viewers need for moral certitude and teach a valuable lesson that the villains always get their comeuppance.

- ❖ complain = are complaining
- ❖ they have difficulties getting = they find it difficult to get

- ❖ enough sleep = sufficient sleep

Thesis Statement

What problems can lack of sleep cause? problems such as mental exhaustion

What can be done about lack of sleep? this can be solved by a reworking of their lives to make time for them to relax and sleep

Introduction Paragraph

These days, a lot of people are complaining they find it difficult to get enough sleep, which can lead to problems such as mental exhaustion. However, this can be solved by a reworking of their lives to make time for them to relax and sleep.

A Sample Essay

These days, a lot of people are complaining they find it difficult to get enough sleep, which can lead to problems such as mental exhaustion. However, this can be solved by a reworking of their lives to make time for them to relax and sleep.

The human body requires a certain amount of sleep to recharge itself and to refresh the brain bio-chemically. If insufficient levels of deep sleep occur, then the brain fails to function properly and its owner will be unable to perform at their normal ability. For example, I know that if I do not get at least seven hours of sleep at night then the next morning I struggle to think properly and get started for the day. Drinking coffee may be a temporary fix to this but a better long term solution would be to simply sleep more.

However, for many people their circumstances are such that due to a busy lifestyle, family, pressures, work, etc., they cannot find time for eight hours of sleep. In that case, they need to re-evaluate their lives and make some time for themselves where they can get sufficient rest. For example, I sometimes am overworked and work long hours but to remedy this, I make an effort to start early in the morning and finish work at a reasonable hour. This is not ideal, having less work would be better but these days it is the best I can do, as I am sure it is for other people too.

In conclusion, the phenomenon of sleep deprivation seems to be commonplace these days, possibly caused by the hectic daily schedule of many people's lives. To remedy this, I suggest that sleep starved individuals reassess their priorities and make more time for themselves so that they can get sufficient sleep.

In the future, more people will choose to go on holidays in their own country, and not to travel aboard on holiday.

Do you agree or disagree?

Paraphrase

- ❖ In the future, more people = More people.... in the future (change in order)
- ❖ in their own country = at home
- ❖ go on holidays = holiday (verb)
- ❖ travel aboard = go abroad

Thesis Statement

Do you agree or disagree? I disagree with this idea

My Reasons: as for many, a holiday means foreign travel, however, other issues may decide our holiday destinations

Introduction Paragraph

More people will choose to holiday at home than go abroad in the future. I disagree with this idea in general as for many, a holiday means foreign travel, however, other issues may decide our holiday destinations.

A Sample Essay

More people will choose to holiday at home than go abroad in the future. I disagree with this idea in general as for many, a holiday means foreign travel, however, other issues may decide our holiday destinations.

I believe that the word "holiday" evokes travel, flights, and other lands with hot sun and golden beaches. A lot of people only have one holiday a year and they want a special and memorable experience which their own country might not be able to provide. For example, the tourist industry relies on this to sell its packaged holidays, all the brochures in the travel agents show scenes of sand, oceans, and bikinis and the exoticness of the "other". Personally, I see no reason for this trend to lessen unless there are particular reasons to prevent travel such as border closures and other restrictions such as those we are currently experiencing.

However, pandemic restrictions aside, financial issues often also dictate where people go on holiday. Going abroad may be preferable for many, but as the saying goes we have to "cut our cloth according to our measure" and go where we can afford. For example, when I was working full time, I would often go to some hot sunny beach for a couple of weeks but now due to the current climate I can only afford a weekend in my own country instead. This situation will no doubt affect others over the coming year and domestic vacationing may well increase this summer.

In conclusion, holidays abroad will not decrease by choice as many people look forward to their two weeks in the sun for their annual holiday. That being said, other circumstances may force the issue and make the choice for them as economic uncertainty and closed borders make domestic vacations more realistic.

In many countries, paying for things using mobile phone (cellphone) apps is becoming increasingly common.

Does this development have more advantages or more disadvantages?

Paraphrase

- ❖ paying = Making payments
- ❖ using mobile phone (cellphone) apps = via mobile apps
- ❖ is becoming increasingly common = is becoming commonplace

Thesis Statement

Does this development have more advantages or more disadvantages? In my view, the advantages of ease of payment and being cashless outweigh the negative impact on some shops and shoppers

Introduction Paragraph

Making payments via mobile apps is becoming commonplace in many countries. In my view, the advantages of ease of payment and being cashless outweigh the negative impact on some shops and shoppers.

A Sample Essay

Making payments via mobile apps is becoming commonplace in many countries. In my view, the advantages of ease of payment and being cashless outweigh the negative impact on some shops and shoppers.

As many people around the world carry a smart phone, using it to make purchases would seem to be a logical step in making life more convenient. You can use this technology in many shops and virtually eliminate the need to carry money and have to fiddle with change. For example, in my local supermarket I see more and more people paying by phone to buy their groceries as just a tap of the phone on the screen and you have paid. Although I prefer cash myself, I can certainly understand why this payment method is growing in popularity thanks to its several advantages.

However, not every purchase can be made electronically and not every shop or customer has this technology. This may lead to a “digital divide” where some shops and consumers benefit and others are left behind. For example, many small shops and street vendors would not have this option for customers as they only take cash, this might lead people to only buy from those who can accept their mobile payments, leaving the others out of business. Also, not everyone has, or wants, a smart phone with this ability, many pensioners do not have one for instance. In that case, if more shops only accept this type of payment method the “digital divide” will widen further.

In conclusion, mobile apps for shopping are here to stay, in my view. The benefits of convenience and being cash free are certainly greater than the downsides which might only affect a minority of people.
